Dear Maureen,

I'm excited to announce that Media Partners is releasing a new motivational meeting opener called Good Company. This 3-minute hip-hop music video is a hit with Generation X, Y, and Z and you may even find some seasoned employees tapping their feet. For more fun, spot fifty famous celebrities at their first jobs sprinkled throughout this music video.

You might find that this is the perfect way to set up a discussion about goal setting within your company or working hard to achieve dreams. No matter what the aim of your meeting is, this video is a great way to remind employees that no matter where they are in their careers, success happens one step at a time.

I also ran across another video I thought you'd like called Life is good® This is another motivational video where optimism, fun and customer service are in charge. Take a moment to preview both Good Company and Life is good® online and let me know if I can answer any questions about either. Enjoy!

Happy New Year

We hope that your New Year was full of excitement and inspiring resolutions. We made a few resolutions ourselves, we plan on losing weight, going to the gym and providing outstanding customer service with each customer interaction! Since we only plan on ACTUALLY keeping one of those resolutions, we're going to throw our backs into it, in fact, I think we should go into the kitchen, grab a peanut butter cup and think over how we're going to make your customer service experience even more remarkable this year.

We, as your friendly neighborhood sales consultants, would also like to pass on the message that we are ready and excited to start the New Year serving your needs. If you have questions, need more information about a particular show or online training, or just need some moral support, we would be thrilled to speak to you. Give us a call!

24-Hour Emergency Services

Disaster Recovery in Washington State

When fire, smoke, or water damage your home, speed is essential to minimize further damage. To restore your home to its pre-crisis condition – and avoid costly mistakes – it's just as critical to select the most qualified professionals.

As the leader in the restoration and cleaning services industry for more than 50 years, ServiceMaster Clean is committed to maintaining the highest business, ethical, and quality standards.

Because disasters large and small occur around the clock, ServiceMaster Clean is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Count on a restoration professional to respond within two hours to initiate emergency damage mitigation of your property. In 24 hours or less, you'll have a comprehensive estimate. Furthermore, ServiceMaster Clean professionals complete a comprehensive Quality Restoration Vendor (QRV) certification program that helps assure your satisfaction.
